Carol II - The King Who Wanted to Sell Transylvania 🔥 Legends and Mysteries of History

Hello, mystery friends! Today we return to the 1920s, to a moment that could have changed the destiny of Greater Romania forever. It all starts with a forbidden love, a betrayal of royal duty and an ambition that endangered the country's borders - a shocking episode, forgotten and buried deep in the dust of archives. It is the story in which Carol II, the son of King Ferdinand, was willing to betray Romania in order to regain his throne. An international plot, agreements with Hungarian officials, territories promised in exchange for the crown and an absurd coup attempt, all taking place in 1928.
